Recovering the Piedmont Past Lecture Series

Thursday, September 15 at 7:00 p.m.

In the early 1920s, large numbers of Greeks left their homeland and settled in the South Carolina Upcountry, specifically Spartanburg, where they made their fame and fortune in the food industry. The Greeks of this region prospered while maintaining their culture, language and religion. In fact, they virtually created a satellite of Greece in the United States, transmigrating between their two countries as one would between a mother country and a colony and establishing a haven of Greek culture in a place where the vast majority of residents were Anglo Americans or African Americans. Whereas other immigrants from southern Europe were often persecuted and discriminated against, the Greeks were held in high esteem, particularly in the Palmetto State. Dr. Catherine G. Canino will address this disparity while telling the fascinating story of this community at the Headquarters Library on Thursday, September 15 at 7:00 p.m. Dr. Canino is a Professor of English and Director of the Honors Program at the University of South Carolina Upstate. She is author of Shakespeare and the Nobility: The Negotiation of Lineage.
