Knitting Hats for Kindness

During the month of September, our library branches collected hats for NICU babies. The final count for the Knitting Hats for Kindness project came to 840 hats! 144 of those hats were made by Middle Tyger Library's patrons and library staff. These beautiful, handmade hats will be donated to preemies in the NICU and will bring warmth and comfort to many tiny heads and grateful families. Thank you so much to everyone that supported this project - whether you knitted, donated yarn, helped collect hats, or encouraged others to participate - your support, time, and talent is appreciated.

Book Review by Leverne McBeth

29 Gifts: How a Month of Giving Can Change Your Life by Cami Walker

Cami was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis at the age of 31. She experienced bitterness and became addicted to pain medication. Cami's neighbor told her about the 29 Gifts Challenge. She discovered that giving helped her cope with her situation and recorded her journey in this book. This book is an inspiration/self-help book in the library's nonfiction collection (call number is 155.23 Walker).
